

DEFENDANT MUST APPEAR, SUMMONS

The following appeared in a recent issue of The Calgary Albertan, and may be of interest to many of our readers:

"The outstanding number of 18 arrests for non-appearance of defendants to answer claims under the Small Debt Recovery Act, probably ranging from $5 to $50, during the past 10 days is probably due to ignorance on the part of the public who do not understand that a summons is a peremptory command to attend," F. M. Graham, judge of the Small Debts court, said Monday.

For Tuesday of this week, seven warrants have been issued: on October 22, five; on October 20, three, and October 15, three. All warrants are executed by police and the defendants in such cases are handled in the same manner that persons accused of an indictable offence are handled, namely they are actually arrested and held until trial. In some cases the "Black Maria" has been called into duty.

The public, Mr. Graham said, probably confuse the Small Debt Recovery Act with the small debt procedure in District Court. The procedures, he said, are entirely dissimilar.

Mr. Graham explained that the exercise of the section to apprehend ultimately was to the benefit of the defendant. A claim for $15, he said, might be made against some man who is out of work or on part time employment, and if a judgement for $5 a week was given against him, the man might be forced into a precarious position.

Numerous cases of this nature arose after he took office, Mr. Graham said, and action to bring the defendants into court, as Mr. Graham had the power to do so, was necessary. Settlements of as low as $1 a month have been made, he stated.

In district court small debt division default judgements are given for non-appearance of the defendant. In the small debt court, however, a summons to attend, default judgements not being given, as, on failure to appear, warrants are issued and non-appearing defendants are haled into court under escort.

In addition to being arrested, the defendant so brought into court has to pay the original $2 fee for summons, as he would do in any case, $1.50 police costs and charges for mileage if any. The exceedingly large number of arrests for small debts of late is probably due to misunderstanding on the part of the public he said.

A summons under the Small Debts Act is worded: "You are hereby required to appear before me," etc. which is totally different from a summons under the District Court, a small debt procedure, the pertinent parts of which follow:

"If you dispute the claim or any part thereof, you are to give to the clerk within the above mentioned time a dispute note hereto attached, or one to the like effect, together with the sum of 25 cents for his fees, otherwise judgement may be signed against you by default for the plaintiff's claim and costs. In default of you filing a dispute note final judgement may be entered against you for the whole amount of the claim or in the case of dispute or part of the claim for such

JAMAICA BANANAS POPULAR IN WEST

Seventy-five per cent of the bananas consumed on the prairies at the present time are from Jamaica, according to fruit jobbers at Winnipeg. Three or four cars a week are shipped duty free from Jamaica to Canada. Only one car a week comes from the United States due to the fact that 50 cents duty is payable on each stem arriving from the South.

SOME HEN ARITHMETIC

The following is quoted from the weekly news letter issued by the Co-operation and Markets Branch of the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture:

"Take 84 pounds of grain plus one hen and you have 12 dozen eggs. With grain selling at 1 1/4 cents per pound and eggs selling at 30 cents per dozen this means a value of $3.60 for the grain, or selling grain at a price of $4.28 per cwt. Here are some more facts: The hen which lays 25 eggs means a loss of 64 cents on the cost of feed for one year. The hen which lays 50 eggs means a loss of one cent; the hen which lays 100 eggs means a profit of $1.25; the hen which lays 150 eggs means a profit of $2.49; while the hen which lays 200 eggs brings in a profit of $3.74. Moral—Watch the danger line and get rid of the boarders."

part as is not disputed and costs." The power of apprehension given to a justice under the act was established by an amendment in 1929 which follows:

"1. In the event of the defendant not appearing the justice, upon being satisfied that his non-appearance was wilful, may issue a warrant as hereinafter mentioned, to compel his attendance at a place and on a day and hour mentioned in the warrant which hour shall not be earlier than 8 o'clock a.m.

"2. Every warrant shall be under the hand and seal of the justice issuing the same, and may be directed either to any constable by name or to such constables or all other constables within the territorial jurisdiction of the justice issuing it, or generally to all constables within such jurisdiction.

"3. The warrant shall name or otherwise describe the defendant and it shall order the officer or officers, to whom it is directed, to apprehend the defendant and bring him before the justice to answer to the claim and to be further dealt with according to law.

"4. When the defendant appears and the claim is proved, he may be examined on oath touching his estate and effects, and in particular as to the means he has of complying with any order that may be made against him and as to the disposal of any property he has made since the summons was issued.

"5. Any examination as to his means shall be held in private and no persons, other than the justice, court officers, plaintiff and defendant, counsel, solicitors and witnesses, on behalf of such persons shall be allowed to be present.

"6. At the hearing the justice may make an order for payment forthwith or by instalments, or in any other manner that he thinks reasonable or just.

"7. The costs shall be in the discretion of the justice."

LIFE AT CHURCHILL QUIET NOW

Dredges, tugs and scows used in the summer on work on the harbor are all pulled up high on the beach behind the crib, safe for the winter.

This fall has been the best in the past four years. A year ago the boats were being taken out of the ice and snow, after a three-day blizzard, and at the beginning of November this year there is no sign of ice on the bay or river. The elevator has not received any wheat since the trial shipment, and is closed down now. Activity has faded until next May. All the work for the year is finished.

Last June, Thomas A. Edison spoke to the nation over the radio. It was his last public utterance and was marked by his usual brevity. He said:

"My message to you is: be courageous! I have lived a long time. I have seen history repeat itself again and again. I have seen many depressions in business. Always America has emerged from these stronger and more prosperous.

"Be as brave as your fathers were before you.

"Have faith!
"Go forward!"

EXPENSES CUT BY INVENTIONS TO AID HARVEST

Inventions which make lighter the harvest labors of the farmer and reduce the costs of garnering his crop were demonstrated by J. Stiles, of Clover Bar, to a party of agriculture students from the University of Alberta this week.

The inventor, in the demonstration given at his farm, pointed out to the students that some of the principles used in his machines had been incorporated in some implement company designs, but that the cost of machines such as he operated on his own farm would be too great for most farmers for the slight returns they would receive at first. Mr. Stiles is endeavoring to so simplify the machines that they may be constructed by farmers themselves.

One of the most interesting machines displayed by Mr. Stiles was what he called a barge. It is a huge box built on a set of wheels, which may be attached to a binder or header. Instead of the straw being tied into bundles or dropped directly on the ground, it runs up an elevator into a box. When the box becomes full, grain and straw are dropped through a large trap door. Thus the harvest field may be dotted by a series of miniature stacks.

Mr. Stiles pointed out that this system eliminated the purchase of binder twine, one of the most expensive items on the wheat farmer's budget.

For easy handling of the loose grain Mr. Stiles has developed a large sweep which can lift one of the small stacks and carries it to the separator when threshing starts. The sweep can be operated with a team and horses, and has given efficient service.

A government seed cleaning machine was attached to his separator during the threshing season by Mr. Stiles. As the grain left the separator it passed into a fan mill cleaner, then into a sieve cleaner and lastly through a Curtis disc. Mr. Stiles claimed that by thus cleaning his grain he did not receive any dockage from the elevator and that it also raised his grain a grade. In addition, he has all the dockage on his farm, which he can use as feed for cattle.

RUSSIA NOT TO DUMP HER WHEAT

The Toronto Globe Monday published the following copyrighted cable from its European correspondent:

"It can now be said quite definitely that the Soviet Union will export no wheat this year or next. This statement was made to me by M. Dovgalevsky, Soviet ambassador to France. The ambassador added that the decision to discontinue the policy of wheat-dumping by his country was made following the signing of a new trade agreement with France.

"As the Soviet Union exported a full 110,000,000 bushels last year, and the wheat-crop in other European countries is decidedly of low grade this year, the announced change in the Soviet's policy ought to result in considerable benefit to Canada, for the reduction of the wheat supply thereby obtained will be more than sufficient to absorb the heavy carry-over shown at the close of the last crop year in the Dominion.

"As a result of Russia's proposed inactivity on the one hand and the demands of China on the other, wheat exports are most likely to be increased by some 250,000,000 bushels. This means that total exports from four great wheat-producing countries—Argentina, United States, Canada and Australia—will exceed 900,000,000.

"In Australia and the Argentine the wheat crop will be considerably lower, owing to bad weather, and the appearance of destructive parasites. All these factors improve Canada's situation, and make it more than likely that the Canadian crop of this year and the carry-over of last will be disposed of at a good premium.

"M. Dovgalevsky, who was an agricultural engineer under the Czarist regime in Russia, and one of the biggest private wheat exporters in the Ukraine in the old days, received me in his private office at the embassy. The ambassador launched at once into an explanatory declaration of Russia's dumping policy in the past. The Union, he said, had not taken recourse to dumping as a sort of diabolic plan to unbalance or wreck the economic system of other countries.

"It has been a measure of pure self-defence. Russia needed machinery and raw materials to build up her industrial system, and few credits could be obtained outside. She had been compelled therefore, to undersell in the world markets in order to establish credits for the buying of the material she needed. It was all a very logical procedure, and no one could blame Russia for it.

"To a question as to whether this policy of wheat exportation at a time when the vast population of the Soviet Union was still far from being supplied with the necessities of life had not worked out in appalling hardship the ambassador admitted that virtually the entire population has been put on short rations to enable the state wheat trust to export part of the crop. But the people had shown admirable discipline because it was realized, he said, that the hardships were of a temporary nature, inherent in the period of transition that must precede the building of the Socialist state of the future.

"He was glad to make the announcement. (Continued on back page)

A Call To Service

Throughout Canada and the United States national campaigns are now in progress to raise funds and supplies wherewith to meet the needs of hundreds of thousands of people without employment and lacking the very necessities of life.

In the United States a great voluntary organization has been called into existence upon invitation of President Hoover, and it is now engaged in a whirlwind campaign organized upon similar lines to those followed during the war and in the recent Red Cross flood disaster appeal. The press, the theatres, the radio, the pulpit, every known kind of organization,—all are being mobilized with a view to raising tens of millions of dollars within a few weeks.

In Canada, the Federal and Provincial Governments have assumed responsibility for relief measures, assisted by the municipalities. During the last session of parliament, following Premier Bennett's description of the existing situation in Western Canada as "a national calamity," the House of Commons unanimously voted an unlimited amount of relief. It was not made a party issue, but the Government's request for adequate funds was supported by Conservative, Liberal, Progressive and Labor alike.

But in Canada, as in the United States, the magnitude of the need, and the urgency of the claims of tens of thousands of people upon the sympathy and practical support of their fellow citizens, calls for the active co-operation of all people and organizations. The problem is too big for even the united forces of Federal and Provincial Governments.

The Prime Minister of Canada has, therefore, made an appeal to all the people of Canada, and all the organizations of Canada, to support a nation-wide campaign to raise funds to supplement the efforts of governments in meeting the needs of those who must be supplied with food, clothing, fuel and shelter throughout the coming winter months.

In other times of national disaster, such as the Halifax explosion and the northern Ontario fires, or international disasters like the Japanese earthquake, the people of Western Canada organized their forces and gave generously to the needs of the stricken. This year not so much will be expected from the people of the Prairie Provinces; instead of being givers, thousands of our people will be the recipients. It is because of the Western situation that the present appeal is made; it is in the West that conditions approaching a national disaster exist.

Nevertheless, there is much that our Western people can do to assist each other; much that neighbor can do for neighbor, and friend for friend. There are thousands of us who can still spare a little something for somebody else. Quite a considerable number of people have already "adopted" some other person or family and have been assisting them for months past, and will continue to do so while the necessity exists. This quiet, unostentatious "adoption" of others in need can, without very great sacrifice on the part of many, be very greatly extended. It will assist Governments in meeting their problems; it will help to keep down the mounting burden of public debt and taxation which is liable to seriously cripple our future activities and return to better times; it will save some of the more sensitive people from "going on relief" which some regard with almost as much dismay as starvation itself.

Let us, therefore, re-capture some of the old war-times spirit of service and sacrifice. Let us feel the thrill of a great spiritual experience. Let us do our part, small though it may be, to make adequate provisions for those in need in our own communities, so that the fear of cold and hunger will be banished from the hearts of thousands of our fellow-citizens. Such gifts bless the giver. It will lift your own spirit. It will help to end the depression and lay a firm foundation for better times. These great national campaigns in Canada and the United States may well prove the turning point in that direction. Therefore, do your part, liberally as you can; most gladly in any event.

Fourth Biennial Conference Is Held At Shanghai

The fourth biennial conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations, the non-official group for the discussion of international problems, was held in Shanghai. Despite the Sino-Japanese difficulties in Manchuria, complete delegations for both Japan and China were present.

Dr. Hsueh, Chinese poet, philosopher, and cultural leader, president of the conference said Japanese and Chinese members realized good might result from their meeting together as enlightened men and women "regardless of the calamities which befall their countries through the folly of their rulers."

SAVED IMPORTED DRESS

"After a little wearing, a lovely green voile—an imported dress—lost colour so completely that it was not wearable. A friend who had admired it asked me why I wasn't wearing it any more. On hearing the reason she advised dyeing it and recommended Diamond Dyes. To make a long story short, it turned out beautifully. I have a lovely new dress that really cost just 15c—the price of one package of Diamond Dyes."

"I have since used Diamond Dyes for both tinting and dyeing. They do either equally well. I am not an expert dyer but I never have a failure with Diamond Dyes. They seem to be made so they always go on smoothly and evenly. They never spot, streak or run; and friends, never know the things I dye with Diamond Dyes are redyed at all!"

Ruling On Aviation

Provinces Have Control Only Within Their Own Boundaries

The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council has allowed the appeal of the Dominion Government of Canada against a decision of the supreme court of Canada on the reference of the question of whether the Dominion or the Provincial authorities have jurisdiction over aviation matters in Canada.

The supreme court had decided the Dominion may control such aeronautical matters as are involved in international affairs and such aerial activities as the Dominion itself engages in, but ruled the provinces had jurisdiction to control and legislate on aviation matters within their own boundaries.

The supreme tribunal, however, upheld the Dominion Government's contention to supreme jurisdiction over aviation matters in Canada. Their lordships' decision incidentally upheld the validity of Dominion aeronautical legislation which had been challenged by the provinces.

Marked Drop Shown In Business Of Hail Insurance Companies

Business done by the 53 hail insurance companies operating in western Canada in 1931, amounted to only about one-sixth of the 1930 total, both the income and losses of the companies being reduced to this proportion of the previous year's business.

Net losses amounted to $403,051 in 1931, as against losses of $2,651,328 last year. This represents a saving of $2,248,275 in 1931 from the 1930 figure.

At the same time the gross premiums in the three prairie provinces dropped from $2,965,389 last year to $431,120 in 1931. Accordingly the gross income of the companies decreased by $2,525,269 during the present year.

These conclusions were to be drawn from figures supplied to The Regina Leader-Post by H. H. Campkin, secretary of the Canadian Hail Underwriters' Association.

Alberta had suffered particularly heavy losses in proportion to the premiums paid for the past few years, Mr. Campkin indicated.

"From the repeated disastrous experience in the province of Alberta, many of the companies are seriously considering withdrawing from that province or from the hail insurance business entirely," he said. "Three companies in business since 1916 have already signified their intention to discontinue writing this class of insurance."

Of the 53 companies whose premiums and losses were represented in the figures he said, 36 were now writing in Alberta, 51 in Saskatchewan and 46 in Manitoba.

From the gross premium totals the expenses of carrying on business would have to be deducted.

Sees New Period Beginning In Expansion And Development Of Business In Western Canada

(By John F. Sweeting, Industrial Commissioner, Western Lines, Canadian Pacific Railway)

No change of particular note has taken place in the West during the last month. Conditions remain steady with varying changes in trade and some seasonal increases. The grain crop has been rapidly harvested and, while short in volume in the West, is of good grade. Advantage has been taken of the favourable weather to prepare land for the 1932 crop, and heavy rainfalls at intervals in different parts of the West have put the land in good condition for such operation.

One of the most interesting events during September was the visit of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to the West and the holding of its annual meeting in Regina. The visit brought with it the opportunity of a full discussion on Canadian affairs and conditions, and enabled a broader view of the existing situation and prospects for future business to be gauged than is possible when considering only local affairs. It is probable that in paying so much attention to the debit side of current business, the value of Canada's assets, which apparently amount to something over thirty billion dollars not including undeveloped natural resources, has been overlooked. While such resources are not, of course, inexhaustible, they are factors in calculating the business of Canada for future years.

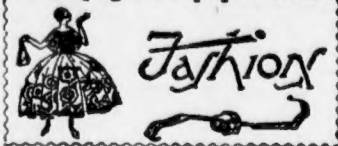

It is along these lines that present business must give heed to what it is going to accomplish in the next 10 years, rather than to its immediate outlook. Granted that the industrial situation has shown some retrogression and the crop of the West is below the average in quantity and price, the crop situation in Eastern Canada; the increase in construction work; the tourist business; lower production and living costs, must be factors in the building up of new business, which will show much greater gains, by reason or present reductions, when the upward movement starts. Perhaps the present is being watched closely to see the coming change, or only the immediate situation is being envisaged, while not enough heed is being given to what the future holds in store.

Industrial enquiries coming into the West are of sufficient significance to give rise to the idea that a good deal of consideration is being given to this field as a manufacturing centre, and that if plans for actual development are being held up, there is no slackening in the investigations taking place by representatives both from Great Britain and the United States. Conversations which have taken place between the West and overseas representatives all look to the ultimate development of Western branches in a field that will yield good business in the near future, and which recognizes the necessity of manufacturing within the territory. While the present is difficult, there appears to be little doubt as to the expansion and development of the Western field in the not too distant future.

Undoubtedly, the low price of staple articles has produced a good flow of domestic business, but the many uncertainties in the present situation, notwithstanding low costs, are holding up the purchase of major products, such as machinery, which means that the large industries are not getting the necessary support. Confidence is still lacking in relation to the situation as a whole, but constructive efforts are being brought to bear on a situation which must, by reason, so far as Canada is concerned, of its productive powers and ability to find new markets, soon get back to a trading level of characteristic proportions. This is essentially the beginning of a new period, within which consideration must be given to future business and preparation made to take advantage of it. A way out has always been found. The present situation demands a new gateway. Its solution appears to be near.

The Board of Trade Legion Post, Chicago, which proposed the idea, received a communication from Peterborough, Ont., advocating a movement to have the League of Nations set a date for a world holiday in memory of the inventor.

Facts About Baffin Island

Largest Island In the Canadian Arctic Archipelago

Baffin Island with an area of 200,000 square miles is the largest of the islands in the Canadian Arctic Archipelago. Its very size is the reason that though it was visited by Martin Frobisher, the great Elizabethan seaman in 1576, it has not borne the name Baffin longer than forty-five years.

Though the coast line was pretty well known by 1822 when Parry passed through Fury and Hecla Strait, there was still uncertainty as to whether various deep bays were actually bays and not channels dividing the island into several islands. Even Arrowsmith in his map of 1854 is not sure on this point. His map gives no name to the main island. The southern portion near Frobisher Strait he calls "Meta Incognita," a name given by Queen Elizabeth following Frobisher's discoveries. Near Cumberland gulf the name Cumberland Island is written, a name applied to the whole island on Foxe's map, 1635. The northern portion of the island Arrowsmith calls Cockburn land, as Parry named it in 1822. Another name not shown by Arrowsmith is Foxe land applied to the southwest portion of the island, after Foxe's discovery of it in 1631.

The name Baffin, as far as the Geographic Board of Canada is aware, was first applied to the island on Admiralty Chart No. 863 published June 28, 1884. The island adjoins Baffin Bay and its eastern shores to their northern limit were seen first by William Baffin, the British explorer, when he penetrated as far north as Smith Sound on his fifth polar voyage in 1616.

Giving All They Can

Hats off to the unemployed of Walkerville, Ontario, who offer to give part of their spare time, gratis, to removing leaves and rubbish from the parks and boulevards of the town and to gathering in fruits and vegetables for welfare work, while their wives sew and knit. When the workless help one another and show an appreciative spirit the heart of the community goes out to them.

Not Safety In Numbers

Keeping his uniform trousers in pawn for nearly four months cost Police Sergeant Victor Lehmann his job. He managed to get along by borrowing trousers from colleagues who happened to be off duty—until one day the whole police force was called out. The sergeant had to report in civilian trousers and was dismissed immediately.

Standardized Pronunciation

New Form Of English Suggested To Be Called Anglo-American

If, in the future, there is to be a standardized pronunciation of the English language there is a possibility that part of the credit must be given to Hollywood. Since the advent of the talking films the defects of British and American speech have been increasingly apparent. Instances in which the pronunciations of the two countries differed radically have necessitated the making of both an American and an English version of the same film. This is the case in a recent picture containing frequent use of the word "lieutenant" which is pronounced "lieutenant" in the English version and "lootenant" in the American version.

Now, questions Herbert Marshall, a London actor, why should there not be a new form of English embodying the best points of both countries' speech and acceptable to audiences in Australia as well? He suggests that the language be called "Anglo-American" and concludes that it is probable, on the whole, that "Anglo-American" will be more "Anglo" than "American" though, he adds, Englishmen will of course, have to adopt many of the American words and forms of expression, as they are now doing, and Americans in turn will have to adopt more of the English forms of courtesy.

Mr. Marshall illustrates the necessity for the standardization of the "a" sound on the part of the English by using the word "plaza." In its correct Spanish form, the word has almost the form sound of "plaza." Some Americans call it "plaza," and others "plazza." The affected English say "plawza." The ignorant say "playza." There is a cockney variation with an "ai" sound. The correct "Anglo-American" pronunciation, he adds, is between "plazza" and "plawza."—Christian Science Monitor.

Dehydration Of Market Fruit

Canada imports annually almost 90,000,000 pounds of dried fruit. To find out whether or not much of this could be profitably replaced by Canadian grown stock the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa has been operating experimental dehydration plants in the provinces of Ontario, Nova Scotia and British Columbia.

Canada continued to hold her position as the fifth trading nation of the world in 1930, according to the annual report of the Department of Trade and Commerce issued recently.

In per capita trade among the world trading nations the Dominion had risen from seventh position in 1913 to fourth position in 1930, while gradually moving down the scale in per capita volume of importations.

In production of printing paper, nickel, and asbestos, the Dominion led all others. Canada is the world's second largest gold producing country, and in output of wheat and zinc holds third place.

As far as exports are concerned the Dominion leads the world in wheat, newsprint, nickel and asbestos, is second in the export of automobiles and wheat flour, while ranking high in wood pulp, lumber, fish, copper, raw furs, etc.

Depressed values the world over are reflected in the trade figures for the current fiscal year. Reports issued by the Department show that for the first half of the fiscal year—April to September—this country imported commodities having a value of $318,221,727, while the value of exports was $295,516,989.

The imports were about $195,000,000 lower than for the corresponding period of 1930 and the export values dropped by about $138,000,000.

Duty collected during the six months was $61,312,307, as against $80,743,333, or roughly $19,000,000 under collections for the same period a year ago.

Wood Buffalo Park Map

Most Northerly Area Of Any Size Mapped In Canada

As an aid in the administration of the Wood Buffalo Park by the North West Territories and Yukon Branch of the Department of the Interior, there has just been issued by the Topographical Survey of that Department a map of the park on the scale of eight miles to the inch.

This park lies west of Slave and Athabasca Rivers, partly in the province of Alberta and partly in the Northwest Territories, and comprises some 17,300 square miles. It is beyond the present range of intensive settlement and as a consequence maps of this region have been greatly lacking in detail, thereby rendering more difficult the problems of administration.

The present map is designated as an exploratory edition only due to the fact that the information as yet is by no means complete and much further work is required to make it so. The mapping information was largely obtained by the use of aerial photography and to date this area is the most northerly one of any considerable size so mapped in Canada.

Some Profit

Farmers should not become too reckless with the big money they are making these days. Prices are liable to drop, and the first thing they know they will be facing hard times. Last week a Saugeen township farmer shipped a cow to the Toronto market and after all expenses had been paid he was 87 cents in pocket on the sale of the beast.

Car bandits took a safe containing only twenty shillings from London to Bristol before they discovered the fact. Nice to know a pound will go so far these days.

Memo—Go Fishing!

The fishing season of 1931 may be drawing to a close, but the ardent angler, packing away his rods and flies with a sigh, has still many a fishing treat in store through the medium of "Memo—Go Fishing," just published by the Bobbs-Merrill Company and written by Bob Becker, internationally known fisherman and for the past ten years editor of "Woods and Waters" in the Chicago Tribune. Mr. Becker has played swordfish in the Pacific; hooked sailfish in the Gulf Stream; taken Dolly Varden trout from Alaskan waters, and angled for golden trout in lakes 11,000 feet up in the Sierras. From bass to barracuda, from trout to tuna, from pike to piranha, he tells of them all in many an exciting battle where sometimes he and quite often his quarry came off best. Canada is however his predilection, judging by the amount of space given the Dominion in this book of 350 pages. The French River, Nipigon River, and Lake of the Woods region are the scenes of many of his adventures and whole chapters are devoted to the wily musky and the fighting bass that have made these waters famous. Photograph shows last phase of a battle with a trout on the Nipigon River.

Air Mail Postage Rates

Reductions Go Into Effect In Order To Stimulate Business

Representations from business men all over Canada to the effect that lower air-mail postage rates would stimulate them to employ that medium for the transmission of their letters have been acceded to by the post office department, and certain reductions have now gone into effect, it was declared by post office officials at Ottawa. Instructions have therefore been sent to postmasters throughout the country informing them of the new rates.

No change has been made on the initial ounce, this remaining at six cents, but on each succeeding ounce the rate has been cut in half—from 10 cents to five. In general, the new rate is a flat five-cent one, the additional cent for the first ounce being the amount of excise tax.

For international mail, however, there is no alteration in rates.

PAUL AT EPHEBUS

Golden Text: "Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather even reprove them."—Ephesians 5:11.

Lesson: Acts 19; Ephesians 5:5-11. Devotional Reading: 2 Corinthians 13:11.

Explanations and Comments

The Forfeited Chance, verses 8, 9.—On his third Missionary Journey, Paul came to Ephesus, whence he followed his customary method of speaking to the Jews in the synagogue. For three months he preached there, but instead of heeding his message the Jews hardened their hearts, and some of them even spoke evil of "The Way" (used as a synonym by Christianity; recall Acts 9:3). Paul and the Christian part of the congregation, both Jews and Gentiles, were compelled to withdraw to the lecture-room of Tyrannus. Tyrannus was probably a Gentile who had a school of philosophy, and Paul may have seemed to the Ephesians to be only one of the wandering professors of philosophy who were so numerous at Ephesus.

Two Fruitful Years, verse 10.—For years Paul continued to teach in the school of Tyrannus, and "all that dwelt in Asia heard the word of the Lord, both Jews and Greeks." Within easy reach of Ephesus were the other cities of the Province of Asia, on the western shore of Asia Minor, and during these years all the Seven Churches of Asia mentioned in Revelation 1:4, 11 were probably founded. Visitors to the city on their return carried news of the great preacher to every out-of-the-way corner of the province.

Special Miracles Wrought By Paul, verses 11, 12.—God was the power, Paul the instrument. Ephesus was the center of magical arts and provided a ready atmosphere for manifestations such as are recorded in verse 12. "The handkerchief was the 'sudaria' used to wipe the sweat from the workman's face, and the apron was the 'semicircula' or workman's short apron."—Bartlett.

Belief in such power was general. Superstition abounded. The spirit of expectancy was abroad. "Even though these men employed means to display their faith, which were unnecessary, and superstitious," says the Cambridge Bible, "because of the reality of the faith, God did not suffer it to lose its reward."

Jewish Exorcists, verses 13-17.—There were strolling Jews in Ephesus who travelled from place to place making their living as magicians and exorcists, professing to be able by the use of incantations and ceremonies to expel evil spirits and deliver men from their malign influence. These Jews began to employ the name of Jesus and Paul in their incantations, saying, "I adjure you by Jesus whom Paul preacheth."

Similarly in the Book of Acts (19:14, 15), there is the record of the seven sons of Sceva who used the name of Jesus as a magical incantation to expel spirits. We have to recognize that then, as now, merely psychic power might be confounded at times with spiritual power, and produce an inflation of spiritual confidence, strangely devoid of moral quality. And we flinch from the fact if we assert that results of such activity are always either fleeting or pretended. To go no further than the realms of evangelism, there are undoubted instances of genuine conversion at the hands of men of worthless character who rendered only lip-service to the gospel.—R. C. Gillie.

The evil spirit challenged the right of these sons of Sceva to use these names—crying "Jesus I know, and Paul I know; but who are ye?" And then the man who was possessed of the demon leaped upon two of the exorcists and overpowered them, so that they were forced to flee naked and wounded.

Paul's struggle with and victory over the demon-possessed became known with the result that fear fell upon all, and the name of the Lord Jesus was magnified. "The city became convinced that the name of Jesus must not be lightly used or trifled with, and so they magnified it."

Preparing For Christmas

Vancouver Island Shipping Holly and Trees To Eastern Canada

Five hundred tons of holly, mostly from Vancouver Island points and several times that weight of Christmas trees will soon be shipped out of the province to eastern Canada and points in the United States. It is now illegal for a man while intoxicated to ride a bicycle in St. Paul, Minn. We have always understood that it is illegal for a man to be even intoxicated in St. Paul.

For Needy Children

Saskatchewan Schools May Lend Helping Hand To Santa Claus

Saskatchewan schools may lend a hand to Santa Claus in preparation for his annual Christmas visitation, and so ensure that he shall have sufficient stock of toys on hand to go his nocturnal round without passing up a single home, if they respond to the call of the Provincial Boy Scouts' Association and the suggestion of the Provincial Department of Education.

The Department of Education has endorsed the proposal that the schools of the province co-operate with the Boy Scouts' Association in the establishment of toy repair shops as a "Christmas Good Turn" on behalf of needy children in the community. The objective needs no emendation or explanation other than that, though depression may have penetrated the home, it shall not invade the hearts of the children during the traditional season of peace and goodwill.

In recommending adoption of the Scouts' suggestion, the Department of Education has urged co-operation of the teachers on the ground that such activities as the toy repair shop involves "correlate closely with the content of the school curriculum in industrial arts and in citizenship."

The plan of collecting and renovating toys for ultimate distribution among needy children has been developed to Dominion-wide proportions in recent years, by the Boy Scouts. Christmas of 1929 saw some 114 toy repair shops in operation from which renovated toys were distributed to some 50,000 children who, otherwise, would have been doomed to bitter disappointment on Christmas morning. Last year, more toy shops were organized and an even greater number of needy children made happy. Saskatchewan boy scout groups contributed their share towards making the scheme an unqualified success. This year, with apparently greater need, particularly throughout the southern portion of the province, the call to service is more insistent. Recognizing the wider claim, the co-operation of the schools throughout Saskatchewan has been sought, the Department has given the movement its benison, and recommends it to the attention of school teachers. The toy repair shops should commence operations not later than November 15 and have all work cleared up by December 22, so that workers may have some time for their own Christmas preparations, it is urged.

Information on the organization of toy repair shops may be obtained, if required, from the provincial headquarters of the Boy Scouts' Association, 208 Darke Block, Regina. Organization covers collection of old or discarded toys, their repair and renovation, and final distribution to the beneficiaries. It is suggested that boys and girls attending school collect what old toys may be available around their own homes, enlist the co-operation of relatives and neighbors in the work, and solicit aid through church and school bulletins. Having organized a source of supply of "raw material," it is necessary, of course, to have a plant, workshop or factory in which to do the renovating. Perhaps the school can lend a room, or boy scout headquarters. The church may supply the need in this respect, or some vacant store or other unused building may be placed at the disposal of Santa's young assistants. So long as the place is heated, lighted and is large enough to fulfil the requirements, it will be suitable.

Then comes the matter of the actual repairs. Some may call for ingenuity greater than the young people, themselves, can supply. In such cases, it is suggested that the services of the school manual training instructors be requisitioned, the assumption being that they will readily respond. Boys taking manual training also can supply demands for "skilled labor." School principals, church clubs, and teachers will be found ready to co-operate and it is suggested that, wherever a boy scout group has established a toy repair shop all in the community contribute to its success.

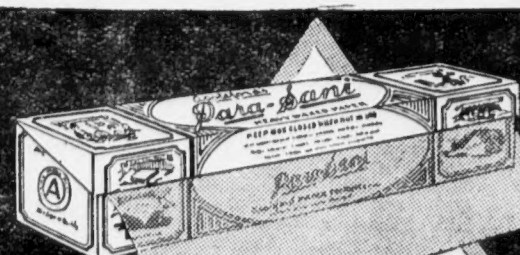

Ordinary repair work on small toys, scout experience has shown, can be done surprisingly well by a group of older boys and girls who should work under a "director of repairs" who is a Scouter with some skill in handicraft and a well-stocked tool chest. Mothers and older sisters, it is said, usually prove very sympathetic, and render material assistance in the matter of dolls' clothing and repairs on woolly animals.

The Scout organization issues warning, however, that workers should be garbed in serviceable old clothes for, while paint and enamel can convert a battered and decrepit express wagon, sled or kiddie car into a thing of beauty or utility, it will completely ruin a perfectly good suit if distributed too lavishly over its surface.

As regards distribution of the toys, it is suggested that the matter be handled by a Scout Group Committee (where there is one), or by a Committee of the school established to take care of it. After local needs are provided for, it is suggested that any remainder be divided among the charitable agencies in the nearest community, for distribution there, on the ground that, if a community-wide effort is made to collect toys, they should be distributed on a community-wide basis.

Where toy shops are organized, leaders are requested to register with the Provincial Scout Headquarters in Regina, in order to facilitate the better organization of what has become "the greatest annual country-wide service activity and in which many agencies are lending a helping hand." Toy repair shops also are urged to report final results, giving some idea of the number of toys distributed and the number of children made happy through the efforts made.

NATIONALISTS' VICTORY SETS A NEW RECORD

London, England. — "This is no party victory," declared Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader. "It is an emphatic declaration by the people as a whole in favor of national co-operation in order to restore the fortunes of the country. Democracy has justified itself in the most striking fashion and the patriotic instincts of our people have been revealed in all their strength."

Mr. Baldwin was speaking not merely as the leader of the Conservative party, but as the second-in-command of a government which had just amassed the most overwhelming majority the House of Commons has seen in modern times. The Conservatives, National-Labor and National-Liberal are assured a majority of 500 over all other parties combined.

The Labor party's representation in the House had shrunk from 270 to 50. Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, new parliamentary leader of the Labor Party, who lost his own seat in Burnley, said:

"The victory establishes an overwhelming Tory supremacy. The new House of Commons will be a mockery of democratic parliamentary representation and from the standpoint of the general national interests there is a danger of disaster."

The National Government will meet Parliament outnumbering the opposition by 10 to one. Probably never in British history has any government won so sweeping a majority. It is almost twice as large as the majority won by Mr. David Lloyd George's coalition in the famous coupon election of 1918. The nearest approach was the Liberal majority of 372 secured far back in 1832.

The Labor Party is but a wreck of what it was, Mr. Henderson, its leader, is gone from the House. With him 12 former Labor cabinet ministers were defeated. Fourteen other former Labor ministers, not in the cabinet, went under with them. Rt. Hon. George Lansbury alone is left of all the late members of the Labor cabinet who declined to follow the Prime Minister. With its present standing of 30, Labor has not returned so few members to parliament for 20 years. In the general election Labor lost 235 seats without making a single gain.

The Conservatives, who swept the country from end to end, gained 208 seats and lost none—a record which again is probably without parallel in the history of the "Mother of Parliaments."

Puss Moth Machine Used In 1800 Mile Flight

Kingston, Jamaica.—Bert Hinkler, Australian flyer, who once held the Australia-England flight record, landed here at the conclusion of a non-stop flight from New York. His time was 18 hours.

Toronto, Ont.—The flight of Bert Hinkler, noted Australian flyer, from New York to Kingston, Jamaica, set a new record for a Puss moth aeroplane, said V. O. Levick, superintendent of the De Havilland Aircraft Co. of Canada, Ltd.

The distance was about 1,800 miles. Previous record for a 'plane of that type, Mr. Levick said here was set by Amy Johnson, famed British aviatrix, recently, when she flew from London, Eng., to Warsaw, Poland, a distance of about 1,000 miles.

Less Emigration To U.S.

Fewer Visas Are Issued To Canadians, Says Report

Washington, D.C.—Only 1,004 Canadians received immigration visas for admission into the United States during September, as compared with 6,151 in the corresponding month in 1928.

The figures as announced at the state department reflect a decrease of 84 per cent. September, 1928, was used for comparison as it was the corresponding month of the last normal fiscal year.

The figures, the state department said, "show the large reduction in the number of immigration visas issued to residents of Canada since the enforcement by United States consular officers of the 'likely to become a public charge' provision of the Immigration Act of 1917."

Comments By London Press

National Government Organs See Vote As Crushing Blow To Socialism

London, England.—National government organs are jubilant over the election result and generally described the overwhelming victory as a crushing repudiation of socialism.

The Daily Telegraph says the "nemeses of political folly and weakness has been swift and deadly. Leaders who betrayed their trust and the party that upheld them have been taught a lesson that will long be remembered."

The newspaper adds that the National Government has a majority far beyond its expectations and that the road is open for enterprise in setting the country on its feet, and leading it into a new path of progress and prosperity.

"The result is an absolutely shattering blow to Labor," comments the News Chronicle. There has been nothing like this landslide since 1918."

The Daily Mail attributes the government victory to a growing enthusiasm in Great Britain for tariffs and the determination of the working class to deal a death blow to "predatory socialism."

The Daily Express says the Socialist party is wiped out by the election result.

"The country has delivered its judgment in no uncertain terms upon the men who ran away," comments The Times.

Message To the Nation

Ramsay MacDonald Refers To Response To Call For National Unity

London, Eng.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald issued a message to the nation, thanking millions of persons of all parties who for the moment "subordinated party feelings and issues to the pressing national needs."

"A majority unique as it is gratifying which was given today must convince the whole world that when this country calls for assistance willing hands and devoted minds will always respond heartily," the message said.

"We appealed for a demonstration of national unity. The response has been far beyond the dreams of the most enthusiastic of us."

"To my political friends who have suffered such unusual reverses and especially to those of them who with splendid faith and courage backed our appeal and helped to swell our victory, I give assurance that our triumph will in no way mean that either the interests or the point of view of the working classes will be over-looked in the performance of the task before us."

WANT EMPIRE MEET ARRANGED FOR EARLY DATE

Ottawa, Ont.—The Canadian Government will propose to the various governments of the empire that the imperial economic conference, the assembling of which last August was postponed, meet at Ottawa "at the earliest possible date." This was the statement issued to the press by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, the Prime Minister.

In his statement the Prime Minister expressed the hope that former difficulties surrounding the plan for holding the conference in the Canadian capital "had now been removed."

Mr. Bennett was asked whether, in his opinion, the return of the National Government in Great Britain would mean an early meeting of the imperial conference which, on motion of Canada at the London conference a year ago, was unanimously adjourned to meet at Ottawa "within the succeeding twelve months." In reply, the Prime Minister authorized the following statement:

"As the suggested date of meeting was later found to be inconvenient to several of the governments concerned, a postponement became necessary. The Canadian Government earnestly hopes that the difficulties heretofore prevailing have now been removed; and it will immediately propose to the governments of the empire that the conference meet at Ottawa at the earliest possible date."

"This government is confident," continued the Prime Minister, "that the conference will achieve an enduring plan of closer economic association. The need for such an association was never more apparent. Canada will do its full share to bring it about."

Western Farmers Benefit

Advance In Wheat Prices Estimated To Increase Revenue By $10,000,000

Ottawa, Ont.—Western farmers will benefit to the extent of $10,000,000 or $10,000,000 as a result of October advances in wheat prices, according to a rough estimate made by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The Bureau estimates that the increased prices may add from $25,000,000 to $39,000,000 to the value of wheat stocks held in all positions in Canada.

In a statement prepared for Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, the Bureau gives the cash closing prices of wheat at Winnipeg on October 1 and on October 21.

It is on the basis of this comparison that the Bureau estimates at more than $8,000,000 the benefit to western farmers of advancing wheat prices. Increases are registered all along the line from No. 1 Manitoba hard to No. 1 and 2 tough Northern and No. 1 and 2 Duram. The average advance, states the Bureau, is about nine cents per bushel, or nearly double the bonus of five cents per bushel which is being paid.

"The farmers in the regions of high yields in central Alberta will benefit considerably since their threshing had been delayed and little grain sold as yet," the statement sets forth.

"The average farmer in this region has about 65 acres of wheat, yielding about 25 bushels to the acre, and the increase means an extra $145 to $150 to him."

It is significant, the Bureau continues, that these advances in prices were made during a period when deliveries of wheat were the heaviest of the season, "and thus the market was subjected to real hedging pressure most of the time."

Japan Accepts Plan

London, Eng.—A Reuter's agency despatch from Tokyo said that Japan has accepted the League of Nations plan for a year's holiday on armaments on condition it does not affect plans already authorized and that neighboring states, especially non-members of the league also agree.

Five-Year-Old Voter

Belfast, North Ireland.—Five-year-old Ernest Motherwell voted in the British general election. In Ulster no one whose name appears in the register is barred from voting if he can articulate the name of a candidate, Ernest could.

WHERE THE PRINCE OF WALES LOST VALUABLE CATTLE

Here is a picture of the barn on the ranch of the Prince of Wales at High River, Alberta, in which several prize cattle were burnt to death in a fire which destroyed the barn. The damage is estimated at $18,000, and as the valuable beasts were being prepared for show purposes at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, all the Royal entries have been cancelled.

WHEAT PRICE BRINGS JOY

The announcement that Russia will not export any wheat in the next two years comes at a time when it can be received with delight by nearly all parts of the wheat growing world, except Russia herself. The reason given is that Russia will use the wheat herself and thus bring their standard of living to a higher level.

As a result of this announcement
the price of wheat has taken another jump and now wheat is quoted about 20 cents above the lowest price, a little over a month ago. With the world's wheat surplus now accounted for and with the "black horse," Russia, out of the race it has been ascertained that the surplus and the new crop will be practically all used up within the next year and the people can look for a rise in wheat prices. The law of supply and demand will govern all markets and conditions in Western Canada at least will be greatly improved with a better wheat price.

It must be remembered, however, that because a still greater wheat price is predicted, that one can still lose on the wheat market. We do not advise anyone to gamble in wheat.

HALLOWE'EN PRANKS

Hallowe'en pranks were the order of the day (or night) on Saturday, Oct.
31st. All over the world the younger generation played their little tricks and no doubt some damage was done.
Carbon's young folk were not without their little "fun" and although some of the pranks may have been carried too far, it would appear that the attitude of some of our local citizens also was a little far fetched. At the same time
—we say this with apology—the Village fathers were probably a little lax in their duties. The prank referred to of course was the privy in front of one of our local business places. It could and should have been removed long before this. As a hindrance to traffic, and an advertiser of village streets it
"sure takes the cake."

Remember! When the next printing salesman walks into your office and asks you for a printing order, tell him that there is a printer in town and that he CAN do that particular job.

CHAPTER V.

Among the Snows

As Jean stepped outside the hut it seemed as though she had walked straight into the heart of the storm. The bitter, ice-laden blast that bore down from the mountains caught away her breath, the fine driving flakes, crystal-hard, whipped her face, almost blinding her with the fury of their onslaught, whilst her feet slipped and slid on the newly fallen snow as she trudged along beside the Englishman.

"This is a good preparation for a dance!" she gasped breathlessly, forcing her chilled lips to a smile.

"For a dance? What dance?"

"There's a fancy dress ball at the hotel tonight. There won't be—much of me—left to dance, will there?"

The Englishman laughed suddenly.

"My chief concern is to get you back to the hotel—alive," he observed grimly.

Jean looked at him quickly.

"Is it as bad as that?" she asked more soberly.

"No. At least I hope not. I didn't mean to frighten you"—hastily. "Only it seemed a trifle incongruous to be contemplating a dance when we may be struggling through several feet of snow in half an hour."

The fierce gusts of wind, lashing the snow about them in bewildering eddies, made conversation difficult, and they pushed on in a silence broken only by an occasional word of encouragement from the Englishman.

"All right?" he queried once, as Jean paused, battered and spent with the fury of the storm.

She nodded speechlessly. She had no breath left to answer, but once again her lips curved in a plucky little smile. A fresh onslaught of the wind forced them onwards, and she staggered a little as it blustered by. "Here," he said quickly. "Take my arm. It will be better when we get into the pine-wood. The trees there will give us some protection."

They struggled forward again, arm in arm. The swirling snow had blotted out the distant mountains; lowering storm-filled clouds made a grey twilight of the day, through which they could just discern ahead a vague, formless darkness of the pine-wood.

Another ten minutes' walking brought them to it, only to find that the blunted edge of the storm was almost counterbalanced by the added difficulties of the surrounding gloom. High up overhead they could hear the ominous creak and swing of great branches shaken like tops in the wind, and now and again the sharper crack of some limb wrenched violently from its parent trunk. Once there came the echoing crash of a tree torn up bodily and flung to earth.

"It's worse here," declared Jean, "I think"—with a nervous laugh—"I think I'd rather die in the open!"

"It might be preferable. Only you're not going to die at all, if I can help it," the Englishman returned composedly.

But, cool though he appeared, he experienced a thrill of keen anxiety as they emerged from the pinewood and his quick eyes scanned the dangerously rapid drifting of the snow.

The wind was racing down the valley now, driving the snow before it and piling it up, inch by inch, foot by foot, against the steep ground which skirted the sheet of ice where they had been skating but a few hours before.

Through the pitiless beating of the snow Jean strove to read her companion's face. It was grim and set, the lean jaw thrust out a little and the grey eyes tense and concentrated.

"Can we get through?" she asked, raising her voice so that it might carry against wind.

"If we can get through the drifted snow between here and the track on the left, we're all right," answered the man. "The wind's slanting across the valley and there'll be no drifts on the further side. I wish I'd got a bit of rope with me."

He felt in his pockets, finally producing the rolled-up strap of a suitcase.

"That's all I have," he said disconsolately.

"What's it for?"

"It's to go round your waist. I don't want to lose you"—smiling briefly—"if you should stumble into deep snow."

"Deep snow? But it's only been snowing an hour or so!" she objected.

"Evidently you don't know what a blizzard can accomplish in the way of drifting during the course of an 'hour or so.' I do."

Defly he fastened the strap around her waist, and, taking the loose end, gave it a double turn about his wrist before gripping it firmly in his hand.

"Now, keep close behind me. Regard me"—laughing shortly—"as a snow-plough. And if I go down deep rather suddenly, throw your weight backward as much as you can."

He moved forward, advancing cautiously. He was badly handicapped by the lack of even a stick with which to gauge the depth of drifting snow in front of him, and he tested each step before trusting his full weight to the delusive, innocent-looking surface.

Jean went forward steadily beside him, a little to the rear. The snow was everywhere considerably more than ankle-deep, and at each step she could feel that the slope of the ground increased and with it the depth of the drift through which they toiled.

The cold was intense. The icy fingers of the snow about her feet seemed to creep upward and upward till her whole body felt numb and dead, and as she stumbled along in the Englishman's wake, buffeted and beaten by the storm, her feet ached as if leaden weights were attached to them.

But she struggled on pluckily. The man in front of her was taking the brunt of the hardship, cutting a path for her, as it were, with his own body as he forged ahead, and she was determined not to add to his work by putting any weight on the strap which bound them together.

All at once he gave a sharp exclamation and pulled up abruptly.

"It's getting much deeper," he called out, turning back to her. "You'll never get through, hampered with

NEURITIS HAS GONE!

Banished by Kruschen

"I had acute neuritis in the shoulder and left arm, due to exposure in bad weather," writes the Rev. H. E. T. "It was impossible to lift the arm to dress or to use it in any way, and, of course, the pain was dreadful. All external applications were useless. I got it completely normal again by keeping the parts affected warm and taking daily, early in the morning, Kruschen Salts in a tumbler of hot water. It took nearly a month, but every vestige of neuritis has gone."

Neuritis is typical of a dozen other complaints—some minor, some very serious—which all result from impurities in the blood. And it is impure blood, circulating all over the system and setting up inflammation in the tissues, that causes those excruciating pains.

Kruschen Salts can be safely trusted to set the matter right. Because Kruschen contains just what Nature needs to persuade your internal organs back into a healthy, normal condition, your skirts. I'm going to carry you." Jean shook her head, and shouted back:

"You wouldn't get through, handicapped like that. No, let's push on as we are. I'll manage somehow."

A glint of something like admiration flickered in his eyes.

"Game little devil!" he muttered. But the wind caught up the words and Jean did not hear them. He raised his voice again, releasing the strap from his wrist as he spoke.

"You'll do what I tell you. It's only a matter of getting through this bit of drift, and we'll be out of the worst of it. Put your arms round my neck." Then, as she hesitated: "Do you hear? Put your arms round my neck—quick!"

The dominant ring in his voice impelled her. Obediently she clasped her arms about his neck as he stooped, and the next moment she felt herself swung upward, almost as easily as a child, and firmly held in the embrace of arms like steel.

For a few yards he made good progress, thrusting his way through the yielding snow. But the task of carrying a young woman of average height and weight is no light one, even to a strong man and without the added difficulty of plunging through snow that yields treacherously at every step, and Jean could guess the strain entailed upon him by the double burden.

"Oh, do put me down!" she urged him. "I'm sure I can walk it—really I am."

He halted for a moment.

"Look down!" he said. "Think you could travel in that?"

The snow was up to his knees, above them whenever the ground hollowed suddenly.

"But you?" she protested unhappily. "You'll—you'll simply kill yourself!"

"Small loss if I do! But as that would hardly help you out of your difficulties, I've no intention of giving up the ghost just at present."

He started on again, pressing forward slowly and determinedly, but it was only with great difficulty and exertion that he was able to make headway. Jean, her cheek against the rough tweed of his coat, could hear the labouring beats of his heart as the depth of the snow increased.

"How much further?" she whispered.

"Not far," he answered briefly, hush-banding his breath.

A few more steps. They were silent now. Jean's eyes sought his face. It was ashen, and even in that bitter cold beads of sweat were running down it; he was nearing the end of his tether. She could bear it no longer. She stirred restlessly in his arms.

"Put me down," she cried imploringly. "Please put me down."

But he shook his head.

"Keep still, can't you?" he muttered between his teeth. She felt his arms tighten round her.

The next moment he stumbled heavily against some surface root or boulder, concealed beneath the snow, and pitched forward, and in the same instant Jean felt herself sinking down, down into a soft bed of something that yielded resistlessly to her weight. Then came a violent jerk and jar, as though she had been seized suddenly round the waist, and the sensation of sinking ceased abruptly.

She lay quite still where she had fallen and, looking upwards, found herself staring straight into the eyes of the Englishman. He was lying flat on his face, on ground a little above the snow-filled hollow into which his fall had flung her, his hand grasping the strap which was fastened round her body. He had caught the flying end of it as they fell, and thus saved her from sinking into seven or eight feet of snow.

"Are you hurt?"

His voice came to her roughened with fierce anxiety.

"No. I'm not hurt, only don't leave go of your end of the strap!"

(To Be Continued.)

Worms, by the irritation that they cause in the stomach and intestines, deprive infants of the nourishment that they should derive from food, and mal-nutrition is the result. Miller's Worm Powders destroy worms and correct the morbid conditions in the stomach and bowels that are favorable to worms, so that the full nutriment of the child is assured and development in every way encouraged.

Glaciers Never Travel Alone

Line Of Smaller Ones Follow In Its Wake

When a glacier dislodges itself from the land and sails away over the Arctic Ocean, it never travels alone. In the wake of every large one floats a line of smaller companions.

The Eskimo calls this phenomenon "the duck and ducklings," and anyone who has watched the progress of the wild duck followed by her brood will appreciate the aptitude of the name.

Strange as it may seem, plants grow and blossom upon these great ice mountains. When a glacier is at rest, moss attaches itself to it, and after a time seeds, brought by the wind, take root and flourish.

Persian Balm is irresistibly appealing to all women who appreciate charm and elegance. Its use keeps the complexion always clear and beautiful. Tonic in effect. Stimulates the skin and makes it wonderfully soft-textured. Softens and whitens the hands. Persian Balm is equally invaluable to men as an excellent hair fixative and cooling shaving lotion. Splendid also to protect the tender skin of the child.

Nations Still Ignorant

Have Not Learned Lesson From Past Disasters

Equality of sacrifice among the nations was stressed as the salvation of the world, by Sir William Clark, British High Commissioner in Canada. Officiating at the annual prize giving at St. Andrew's College, Sir William addressed the students. Looking back over a generation, "which in the last 20 years has seen so many disasters come upon it, culminating in the severest and most widespread depression which the world has known," Sir William expressed a fear that even now the nations of the world had not yet learned their lesson.

Douglas' Egyptian Liniment is unrivalled for speedy relief in muscular rheumatism, lame back, inflammation, burns and felons.

Secret Of Lipton's Success

Sir Thomas Built On Foundation Of Consistent Advertising

With the death of Sir Thomas J. Lipton advertising loses one of its firm believers. From the time that he started a grocery store in his native Glasgow until he reached the head of a $20,000,000 mercantile corporation, Sir Thomas built much of his success on the firm foundation of consistent advertising. Lipton's Tea is known throughout the world. His publicity schemes were many, and his "understanding of advertising" is credited with bringing him the phenomenal success he enjoyed.

Clever Advertising

Among the good things we've run across lately in advertising is the use of a feather in an advertisement for ball bearings to suggest the quietness of operation. As we remember it the advertisement used just the word "quiet" a picture of a couple of feathers and the trade name.

COMFORT

for COLICKY BABIES

... THROUGH CASTORIA'S GENTLE REGULATION

The best way to prevent colic, doctors say, is to avoid gas in stomach and bowels by keeping the entire intestinal tract open, free from waste. But remember this: a tiny baby's tender little organs cannot stand harsh treatment. They must be gently urged. This is just the time Castoria can help most. Castoria, you know, is made specially for babies and children, it is a pure vegetable preparation, perfectly harmless. It contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. For years it has helped mothers through trying times with colicky babies and children suffering with digestive upsets, colds and fever. Keep genuine Castoria on hand, with the name:

Little Helps For This Week

"Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls."—Matthew xi. 29.

I rest by serving at Thy will.

Thy yoke is easy, and Thy burden light;

And peace grows deep and deeper still

As my obedience proves Thy might.

I hold my powers alone for Thee.

Use them in loving errands of Thy grace;

And calm me, though I may not see Thy methods, as before Thy face.

The rest of Christ is not that of torpor, but of harmony; it is not refusing the struggle, but conquering in it; not resting from duty, but finding rest in duty.

Reduce the Acid

SICK stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated.

Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour. Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. For 50 years this standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go, prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians in correcting excess acids.
